

MATHPATH PERSONAL ELECTRONICS AGREEMENT

(Please print names except for signature)

I, _____, parent/guardian of _____, understand and agree to the following:

- a) MathPath does not allow students to bring any advanced electronic devices to campus, such as laptops, tablets, Apple watches, kindles, and high-powered calculators – anything powerful enough to play a simple computer game. The exception is a mobile phone, which is useful for communication. However, since mobile phones can be used to play games, they will be kept by counselors and only given out for a short period each day to call parents. If you use something else to call home, say an i-Pad with Skype running, you may use such a high tech device, but, like a phone, it will be kept most of the day by your counselor.
- b) Thus, the only electronic devices that are allowed to stay with the student at all times are a low-tech music player; a low-tech eReader; a low-tech digital camera; a low-tech alarm clock; and a simple calculator (4-function or scientific). Such low-tech electronics do not have to be listed on this form. However, I understand that all electronics are brought entirely at our own risk. I therefore agree to make no claims against MathPath or the host institution resulting from any damage, loss or theft to any electronics the above-named student brings to camp.
- c) Parents can petition (below) for an exception, but only for very specific and compelling reasons, such as a medical disability. Even then, if a high tech device is found being used outside its allowed purpose, it will be immediately confiscated and returned only at the end of the program, or earlier at MathPath’s discretion.

Exceptions

If your child will use a device other than a phone for calls to parents, list that device here. They will have access to it only during the time for contacting home.

If you want your child to have some high tech electronic equipment for a special need, we must preauthorize it. State below what you request your student be allowed to bring, why they need it, and when and how they will use it. In the cover email or cover sheet for your forms submission, state that you are requesting an electronics exception, so that we don't overlook it. If we do not respond to your request within a week of acknowledging receipt of this form, contact April Verser (april.verser@mathpath.org).

Note: Any high tech electronic device found in your child's possession which has not been pre-authorized will be impounded for the duration of the camp.

Must be signed and submitted by May 31.
If submitted in hardcopy, do not staple and do not print 2-sided.
